General Job Summary:

Enterprise started in the US in 1957 and we now have a turnover of $14 billion, employing more than 70,000 people across the UK, Ireland, Germany, USA , Canada, France and Spain. On the Enterprise Management Training Scheme, you'll join one of our branches and learn all the business skills you need to run it yourself. This gives you the chance to experience all areas, from sales and marketing to customer service and finance. Enterprise promotes 100% from within, so our trainee programme is the fast track into a great management career. In as little as two years you could be running your own business, recruiting your own teams, and receiving your share of the profits!

What makes the perfect candidate?

In all honesty, there's nothing set in stone as to what an Enterprise employee should or shouldn't look like. However, there are several key traits we look for in all our management trainees. To join our graduate programme, the candidate will have to be comfortable balancing business-minded entrepreneurialism with the empathy and care needed to understand and meet each and every customer's requirements. Because if they are motivated by identifying and engaging with customers' needs and can deliver new and creative approaches to attracting business, then they could be a roaring success here.

A few other things

Along with an aptitude for sales, we like our management trainees to demonstrate an ability to work cooperatively as part of a team, and show genuine appreciation for the hard work of others. There's nothing we love more than someone who can motivate the people around them while gaining the loyalty and support of a team through an inclusive and inspirational style of leadership. Last but not least, they will need to show us how positivity and enthusiasm colours everything they do. They need to ask themselves – do I have a “yes” mentality? Am I driven by the desire to achieve results? If the answer to both these questions is yes, then a graduate career with Enterprise beckons.
